

News from the Wyoming Department of Health

Thursday, February 19, 2009

New State Hospital Administrator Named

The Wyoming Department of Health has named Ted Brewer as administrator for the Wyoming State Hospital in Evanston.

Brewer starts his new role on February 23, and is coming to the facility from Barberton, Ohio. He has worked as a consultant to healthcare organizations with experience as a chief executive officer and executive director in various locations in Michigan, Missouri, North Carolina and Ohio.

Brewer earned a bachelor's degree at Liberty University in Lynchburg, Virginia, and a master's degree in psychology from the State University of New York in Geneseo.

"We are delighted to have Ted Brewer join our department's management team as administrator of the Wyoming State Hospital," said Lee Clabots, Wyoming Department of Health deputy director of administration. "His knowledge and background will provide strong leadership for the future direction of hospital programs, the hospital's role in the mental health system of care in Wyoming and the hospital's participation in the Evanston community."

"We would also like to thank Bob Stahl for his invaluable services as the interim superintendent for the last 15 months," Clabots continued. "I know Bob will be of great help to Ted during the transition and beyond."

The Wyoming State Hospital provides quality active treatment and services involving a variety of mental health disorders for Wyoming residents.

####